sonable appropriation.

We are in receipt of a pamphlet, written by Virgil A. Lewis, Secretary of the Society, which is a strong appeal to the Legislature and sets forth in detail the reasons why an appropriation is cessary at this time. It is discreditable to the State that the valuable historical matter within it is allowed to go to waste, and something should be done for its preservation. Mr. Lewis is right successful. The Times deserves success. when he says that "all men who prop erly appreciate their relations to other ontemporary societies, to the members aggressively Republican and has done of their own society and to the after coming societies of life, recognize the orce of the demand and agree that the State should make permanent provisions for matters of this kind.
